PORTRAIT UNVEILING MARCH 31

ABOUT THIS — AND — ABOUT THAT

By OLIVER GEDEIST

Disappointment

A good man gone bad! That about sums up a truly great man's decision to permit himself to be drawn into the whirlwind of politics. Covered with well-earned honor, deep in the hearts of his countrymen, and safe in history's indelible record, General MacArthur suffers himself to become a candidate for the presidency, where he will have the choice of ending a single term ala the able Mr. Herbert Hoover or in the fashion of the able general but weak President Grant.

Ambition

Did ambition dig into the able general? Many will wonder about that. Does he think he is stronger than many others in history who have failed in the path he is beginning to tread? History holds proof that he is not stronger. A man of great rectitude, of strong character, General MacArthur will find the job of presiding much, much different from generaling. Now he issues orders. None dares disobey. As President, he would find himself like the hare before the hound. After 16 long years of New Deal and its successor, the GOP boys are mighty hungry. They will have to be satisfied. However much politicians prate of high honor in politics, the motto "To the victor belongs the spoils" still prevails.

Mr. Hoover's Example

Mr. Hoover, a man accustomed to directing with authority in his own field, found that in politics his own imagination was as wisp of wind as thin as a soap bubble. The author of plans for social and economic reforms including the best of the Rooseveltian innovations, yet Mr. Hoover, a man of direct action, but without political will, failed to gain the support of his own party leaders. Result: one term and a whirlwind of nostrums wished upon a desperate people. General MacArthur, a truly great general, will fail as Mr. Hoover, one of the country's ablest economists and executives, failed. There may come worse than a New Deal mess at the end of the first and only MacArthur term.

Too Dangerous

The risk is too large. It encompasses the downfall of the human race. For let it be understood that as a people, divided into schisms of economy, politics, religion, races, hatreds, we are too near the precipice now, to unnecessarily take a chance of being pushed over. And a failure to achieve great distinction on the part of General MacArthur as President inevitably would open the door for the extreme radicals, the Wallaces, the embers of Rooseveltism, to become dominant active. Then, goodbye to our established principles, goodbye to the principles upheld in the world only by the herculean influence that is distinctively American character.

Will Fail Again

The same high character that distinguishes General MacArthur characterized Herbert Hoover then—and now. He failed. General MacArthur as President likewise would fail. It is to be hoped the American people will insist that the great general shall not suffer loss of prestige by entering the arena of politics.

Proper constructing of lambing quarters, to permit thorough cleaning and disinfection, is important in preventing lamb dysentery.

Farming Subject Of Conversation

It was a fair exchange of information between young farm club members of two countries last Thursday, March 4, when Robert Bovee, of Manhattan and Ann Archbald of New Lenox both were heard on the WLS School Time interview with two British children. Ann and Robert are 4-H members.

By arrangement with the British Broadcasting company, Prairie Farmer-WLS presented an interview from the BBC studios in Leeds, England. The interview featured Pauline Giles, Ian Wood, and David Roe, all farm children and pupils of a school in Yorkshire, largest county in England. The students talked about farm and school life and farm club work.

In marked Yorkshire accent, they told of their own farms, which are much smaller than our midwestern farms. Ian told of his house, which is 450 years old; the barn, whose bins are all shaped by an axe, and the cowshed beams, which were made from an old galleon. The English children explained that boys in Yorkshire do farm chores after school when they have time, and girls help in the home, much as in America. Some of their farms have electric milking machines, none of them have combines, which they had seen in the American movie "Wild Harvest," filmed in our midwest. Pauline stated that Rhode Island Reds are their most popular poultry breed.

All three of the Yorkshire children are members of young farmer's club with lectures, projects, and social events to keep them busy. At school in Yorkshire the boys study woodworking and carpentering, the girls studying domestic science.

American farm and school life was described by the two Will County 4-Hers. Robert Bovee, who is 12, and Ann Archbald, 14, said she hoped to be a nurse some day. She described the kinds of farms in our midwest and explained that they are highly mechanized. Acting as interviewer of the two American children on the program was Mrs. Josephine Wetzel, Prairie Farmer-WLS School Time director.

The Thursday "visiting day" programs in the School Time series have been featuring such interviews with overseas children in an effort to acquaint children of various countries with their different, yet similar, ways of life, and to bring about mutual respect and understanding," WLS spokesman stated.

Monticello 4-H Camp Site Lake Dam Ready

Engineers have completed a 350-foot dam on the State 4-H Memorial Camp site near Monticello, according to an announcement by H. W. Gilbert, assistant professor of landscape gardening extension, University of Illinois College of Agriculture.

Mr. Gilbert stated that the dam would provide a three-acre, 5,500,000 gallon-capacity lake for fishing, boating and waterfront activities for the 4-H summer camping season. Spring rains are expected to fill the lake to a depth of 10 feet.

Initial surveys of the area were made last summer, and actual construction operations were started last December 8.

Structural features of the dam include a tile drainage system designed to intercept seepage water. Provisions have also been made for draining the lake periodically to control fish population and aquatic growth.

According to Mr. Gilbert, the lake site is located in an area adjacent to the proposed 4-H state memorial camp site and will be used for camping until the permanent memorial camp has been developed.

The area surrounding the small lake is to be developed into permanent picnic and recreation grounds after the completion of the memorial camp.

Camphor is literally "sweated" out of the camphor trees, according to the World Book Encyclopedia. Branches of the tree are steamed until they give off drops of camphor as if they were perspiring. The camphor is then drained and pressed to remove the oil and water it contains, leaving whitish crystals.

REGANS HOLD DANCE FOR FIRE NEMESSES

Fire-fighting brought a dance for New Lenox and Mokena firemen and their families Saturday night.

Usually, after a fire, the firemen have the memory of a job well done, but not so with the Robert G. Regans (Mr. and Mrs.), who live about two miles west of Mokena.

Recently a house occupied by the Knowles family, owned by the Regans, was partly destroyed by fire. Mr. and Mrs. Regan thought the firemen should be treated—and they were. The dance was held in the newly completed New Lenox fire house. Refreshments were part of the evening's entertainment. The house is being rebuilt.

MOKENA TABS 1ST PLACE FOR LIGHTS

Mokena Lights were the bright spot in Mokena basketball when the Light aggregation took Tinley Lights by the scruff of its basketball neck Sunday afternoon and gave them a shellacking to the tune of 48 to 27.

Don and Fritz Guendling climbed the ladder and looked down from the dizzy heights of 12 and 11 points respectively upon their nearest Tinley competitors' 7 points for Dorelle Aiden and 6 each for John Flicker and Leland.

This victory nailed down the top spot for the Mokena Lights.

Following, Mokena Heavies yielded to a faster team when Tinley Heavies took the Mokena group for a loss, the Tinleyites coming up with a score 35 to 22. For Tinley Andrea was on high with 11 points, while Donahue garnered 8 points. For Mokena, Fritz Guendling scored 6 points and "Petey" Homering and "Dodo" Lauffer captured 5 points each.

This ended league competition and Mokena will play again in the tournament at Tinley Park March 25, 26, and 27.

Friday night, Mokena Lights lost to Midlothian, 59 to 38, and the Heavies were on the losing end by a score of 42 to 36 in favor Blue Island.

AMERICAN LEGION NEARING ITS 29TH ANNIVERSARY CELEBRATION

The 29th anniversary of the American Legion, March 15-17, will be observed by thousands of Chicago area legionnaires with patriotic celebrations and social programs in scores of Cook county's more than 400 posts, it has been announced by County Commander Walter J. Swanwick.

Some of the highlights of the birth, growth and accomplishments of the Legion, as related by Commander Swanwick: "Conceived in the muddy trenches of France during the closing months of the first great war, the Legion was born in 1919 at a three-day caucus of 1,000 veterans of the A. E. F. held in Paris. From that handful of American soldiers there developed the largest veterans' organization in the world—The American Legion—with a national membership today of more than 3,500,000.

The appointment of the Rev. Kenneth Warren Hansen of Marshall, Minn., to the pastorate of Grace Episcopal church, New Lenox, has been announced by Bishop Wallace E. Conklin of the Episcopal church.

The new pastor was born in Racine, Wis., and is a graduate of Carroll college, Waukesha, Wisconsin and of Nashotah House seminary, Nashotah, Wisconsin. He served as curate of St. Luke's church and chaplain of St. Luke's hospital, Racine, during 1944 and 1945. He was rector of St. James church, Marshall, Minn., from 1945 until his appointment as rector of Grace church March 1. Rev. Hansen was married February 2, this year, to Miss Elizabeth Wetherbee Anderson of Marshall, Minn.

BOOK REVIEW

Two other new books, both dealing with the life of clergymen, have been added to the Mokena Book club library shelves.

"The Bishop's Mantle" by Agnes Sligh Turnbull. It is about a young man, Hilary Laurens, who is beginning his ministry at St. Matthews, a large, fashionable city church. He is a young man in love with a beautiful girl who finds it hard to exchange her gay times for the demands of a rectory. With them you will experience all the dramas of human life—the humor, the tragedies, the weddings, and the hurried midnights.

This is a revealing novel—a prominent profession; it is a tolerant book and a completely honest one.

In complete contrast is the novel "Stars in My Crown" by Joe David Brown, the story of a southern parson who has plenty of native wit and wisdom.

When the parson came to Walesburg he eased his way into Jere Higham's saloon. Silence followed him through the long smoky room like a hound dog. "Boys," he said, "I'm your new preacher and I aim to give my first sermon right here."

Things begin to happen after that and keep right on going through the whole of this engrossing novel.

HEARING AID PROGRAM AT MID-PERIOD

Will County's hearing conservation program, started in November, 1947, has passed the halfway mark with the testing of a total of 11,470 school children up to the end of the week of February 27. Of these 929 were referred for preliminary examination by the program otologist; each of these 929 received home visits by Joliet township high school nurses, city school nurses, or Will county health department nurses, to explain the possibilities of improvement and to write the medical history.

The specialist made a preliminary examination of 377 children with defective hearing and made suggestions for treatment, which then were mailed to the family's own choice of physician or specialist.

ROMANCE OF THE BELLS... Cast in Spain in the eighth century, an ancient bell with a romantic history has summoned McKendree college students to classes for nearly a century. The bell reposes in the dark belfry of the tower of the historic college chapel (above), which was built soon after the turn of the 19th century.

IN THESE UNITED STATES

Students Heed Aged Bell's
Call to Class for Century

LEBANON, ILL.—Oldest chapel bell in the United States is not the famed Liberty Bell in Philadelphia or an aged bell from long-settled St. Augustine, Fla., but an ancient bell which has rung classes in and out of McKendree college here for nearly a century.

This fact is authenticated by historical data, meager in spots, but fact nevertheless. The bell has a recorded history that dates back for centuries before founding of the Lebanon institution.

The bell, which is located in the clock tower of the historic chapel building on the campus at McKendree, a Methodist institution, has been used almost hourly to summon students to class ever since the college was a mere stripling of 30 years.

But its sonorous voice was heard centuries before Columbus braved the Atlantic to discover America. The vibrant toll of the bell first was heard in Spain, where historians say it was cast in the eighth century. Later it was recast in Spain and brought to Florida sometime in the 16th century.

There are many unfilled gaps in the story of the bell's turbulent history. From Florida it found its way to the Southwest during the historical era when the West was the last frontier of the country. In the 1850s a roving band of Santa Fe traders found the old bell, dated as to its arrival in America, in a deserted Indian mission in New Mexico.

For some reason the heavy instrument was brought to St. Louis, then the gateway city to the new country. Historians disagree as to whether or not the bell was recast or repaired in St. Louis. Anyway, the name, "Saint Louis," is visible on the bell, as well as other symbols and insignia so corroded as to be almost undecipherable.

Following its arrival in St. Louis, the bell was taken to Centralia, Ill., in 1858, to be exhibited at the Illinois state fair. Here it was purchased for McKendree college by a Mr. Cobleigh, at that time president of the budding institution.

The bell was taken to Lebanon and hoisted into the bell tower of the new chapel then under construction. Since then, it has reposed in the dark belfry of the tower above the building, where the outside world little realizes the romance of its little history.

Just how the bell served during its first century in America is unknown. McKendree college, founded in 1828, is conceded to be one of the oldest colleges in the Mississippi basin, and one of the buildings, known as "Old Main," is said to be the oldest assembly hall west of the Alleghenies.

Very few people have seen the bell at its resting place high in the clock tower of McKendree's chapel, for to reach it, a person must climb a series of ladders that lead upward to the darkened tower.

Receives Special Aid

ST. MARTINVILLE, LA.—In an attempt to stimulate the aged tree, special tree food has been placed in the ground at the roots of historic Evangeline Oak, which stands on the banks of Bayou Teche near the old Attakapas trading post.

About 100 pounds of a special preparation were embedded near the roots to overcome slight deterioration of the tree noted recently.

Broncho Busters
Thrill Youngsters
Of Old River Town

CASSVILLE, WIS.—This is one town where the youngsters don't have to go to the Saturday afternoon movie to see their cowboy heroes.

Some of the best broncho busters, trick ropers and bulldoggers in the country live right here in this Mississippi river village of 956 population. To the delight of the town's youngsters, they wear their big hats, fancy jackets, loud shirts and high-heeled cowboy boots around town whenever they are home from rodeos in New York, Chicago, Denver, Pendleton, Salinas and other cities.

The hard ridin' hombres who give the village a touch of the rough and ready west are four members of the Buschbom family. They are Bill Buschbom Sr., 41, and his two sons, Jack, 20, and Bill Jr., 23, and Bill's brother, Ted, 34.

At present the Buschboms have more than 100 horses, some trained and some wild, and an assortment of bulls, steers and calves on their ranch near here.

As usual, Cassville youngsters anxiously are awaiting the advent of spring. Then the Buschboms will spend a few weeks practicing bareback riding, roping and bulldogging steers in the field near the big barn before hitting the sawdust circuit.

During those two weeks, Cassville mothers are going to have a hard time getting their pistol-packin' cowboy sons home in time for meals.

Jack Buschbom ranks as one of the top three or four bareback riders in the country, winning about $5,000 in prize money in that competition last year. Bill Jr. is one of the top ranking trick ropers. The father, a former bronc rider and bulldogger, now confines his activities almost exclusively to putting his 8 to 12 trained horses through their paces in his "liberty act" at major shows. Occasionally, however, the lure of his old calling impels him back into the ring for bulldogging contests and last year he won first place in a Mobridge, S. D., show. Uncle Ted also is a bulldogger.

Christian Character

Lesson for March 14, 1948

WHO is the most valuable person in your community? In many communities it has come to be the custom to select the Man of the Year or the Woman of the Year, the idea usually being to name the person, through a process of sampling of public opinion, who has rendered the outstanding service of the year.

Dr. Newton

Sunday's lesson is a dramatic scene out of the long ago, picturing a community's tribute to a truly great man, the apostle Paul. Read Acts 20:17-38, and you will have the story.

LOVED AND HONORED

THE first impression I get from this story is the fact that these people of Ephesus loved Paul. They loved him enough to lay aside their work and hasten to the nearby seaport of Miletus to see him for the last time, and to bow down in his presence and honor him.

Why did they thus love Paul? Because he had told them about God. You need not read again the record of Paul's ministry in that important city of Ephesus to be reminded of how greatly he had served them in the name of Jesus.

Loved and honored! What a tribute to the worth of Christian character! Wouldn't you appreciate the tribute which they paid Paul as the goal out yonder to which you strive? Boys and girls of today may thus be honored tomorrow, if they will live for Jesus as Paul did.

THE POWER OF RIGHT LIVING

PAUL not only told the Ephesians how to live, but illustrated day by day in his own life what he preached to them. The most eloquent sermons are not spoken, but lived. "What you are speaks so loudly I can't hear what you say."

The boy and man who plays the game straight are putting into practice what the teacher and preacher proclaims on Sunday. The power of right living will win its way today, just as it did in the long ago when Paul witnessed for Jesus in Ephesus.

It was not easy to live for Christ in Ephesus, nor is it easy to live for him in Chicago or Los Angeles or Boston or Miami, but it is the one way to ultimately impress the world of the reality of Christianity.

PAUL'S CONSUMING PASSION

WE ARE what we are, becoming, and never was this axiom of life more powerfully illustrated than in the case of Paul. "I press on toward the goal for the prize of the upward call of God in Christ Jesus," Philippians 3:14. And in Ephesians 5:6-21, Paul reviews the qualities of conduct which produce worthwhile character, admonishing all Christians to strive for these qualities.

"I live, yet not I, Christ liveth in me," is another of Paul's watchwords, and still again, "I can do all things through Christ, who strengtheneth me."

It was the consuming passion of his life to embody the teachings of Christ in his words and in his works. It is conceivable that the people at Ephesus had come to see Christ in the life of Paul, and that his daily ministry in their midst convinced them that God was in Christ reconciling the world unto himself.

WHAT AM I WORTH?

THE question then emerges, What am I worth to my community? When I come to the end of the journey, will the people who know me best honor and love me for what I have done?

I can see the people of Ephesus bowing on the dock at Miletus, kissing this weary old servant of the Lord. It is a beautiful scene. This tribute meant more to Paul than all the gold of Ephesus would have meant. It was compensation of abiding worth to him. And what is vastly more important, it was glory to God which must have evoked the praise of the angels about the great White Throne.

On God's Word

John Wycliffe, in the introduction to his translation of the Bible into English in 1380, wrote as follows: "When the teachings of the Bible are generally accepted and acted on, then shall we have a government of, for and by the people."

Four hundred years later the American republic was established—the first great democracy—and it was successful because the Constitution and the Bill of Rights were founded on God's Word.

When finishing unlined coats, or garments made of sheer fabrics, press the seams open. Then by turning the edges back on themselves, stitch along the turned edge. Do not stitch through the right side of the garment, however. Dainty even running stitches make a neat job.

Glue a small piece of cloth measuring tape to the inside of the wooden frame of your knitting bag. You'll find this handy when sewing or knitting.

A watched kettle never boils—especially if you leave a spoon in the pan. The spoon conducts heat away from the liquid and retards boiling.

For Joyful Cough
Relief, Try This Home Mixture

This splendid recipe is used by millions every year, because it makes such a dependable, effective medicine for coughs due to colds. It is so easy to mix—a child could do it.

From any drugist, get 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex, a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well-known for its soothing effect on throat and bronchial irritations.

Then make a syrup by stirring two cups of granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Put the Pinex into a pint bottle and fill up with your syrup. This gives you a full pint of cough medicine, very effective and quick-acting, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and is very pleasant—children love it.

You'll be surprised by the way it takes hold of coughs, giving quick relief. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, and helps clear the air passages. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

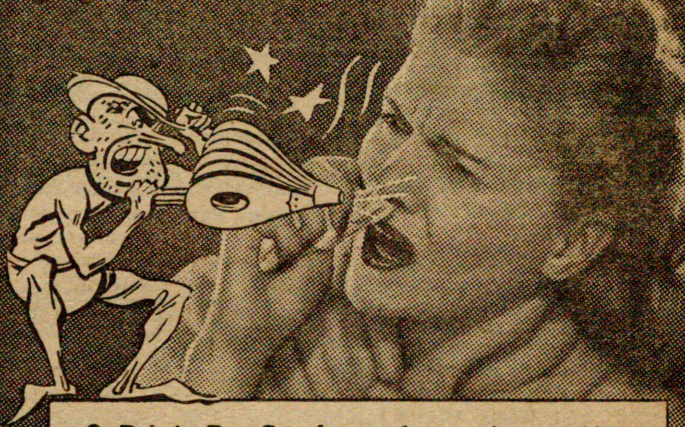

Pinex Saves You Money!

'Columbus Clocks' Found
To Be but Fair Souvenirs

At the Chicago World's fair (Columbian exposition) in 1893, thousands of souvenir clocks were sold bearing a portrait of Columbus and the date 1492, says Collier's. Years later upon the death of the original purchasers, a large number of these souvenirs came into the possession of descendants and others, many of whom, believing they owned "a clock brought over by Columbus," sought an estimate of its value from clock authorities and antique dealers, only to be disillusioned.

WHAT DO YOU KNOW ABOUT TAXES?

"Surplus" Electrical Equipment Soon To Be Hot-Weather Shortage

Warnings have been sounded a number of times by electrical dealers as well as by manufacturers of household electrical devices that the temporary appearances of a surplus of washing machines, electric refrigerators, and such items may nullify many into thinking that since the items are plentiful there is no need to be in a hurry about buying.

Actually, all manufacturers and dealers expect a shortage this summer—in fact, as soon as the weather becomes a bit warmish. The reason, according to manufacturers, for an apparent good stock being on the floor of dealers is that thousands of persons are waiting simply because they think they can call the favorite dealer and tell him to deliver at "any old time."

As a matter of fact, many dealers are reported as knowing exactly where most of the equipment on their floors is going. By May, it was said, the manufacturers will be rationing distributors and distributors will be rationing dealers.

So, say the manufacturers, a whole lot of people will be surprised within a few weeks when they find that what they thought to be a surplus turns out to be a good old-time shortage.

"Input" Needed to Build Your Soil For Big Crop Yields

CHICAGO—"Input" as well as "stop-loss" measures are a must if you want to make soil management pay its own way and give you dividends, too, according to a statement made public here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee.

"You can slow down water runoff, save some topsoil and plant food and hold back the march of erosion," says the statement, "by such Grass Waterway Is Good "Stop Loss" Measure.

'stop-loss' steps as contour cultivation, strip cropping, terracing and building dams where necessary. "These are key steps in soil-saving.

"But you need plenty of 'input,' too. "That means organic matter from manure, green manure crops, deep-rooted legumes in the rotation and crop residues. It means the use of mixed fertilizers containing nitrogen, phosphorus and potash as needed, to boost crop yields and the tonnage of organic matter returned to the soil.

"Among the 'input' steps, the growing of deep-rooted legumes is especially important. The tap-roots of well-fed legumes will push organic matter deep into the soil and improve the tilth in the top 18- to 25-inch soil layer. The legumes will open up tightly-packed soil and admit oxygen down under. By improving tilth and building organic matter, they will make the soil a better water reservoir for 'thirsty crops.'"

Henry Henke, who suffered leg injuries about seven weeks ago, is still a patient at St. Francis hospital. He

(From Taxpayers' Federation, Illinois) Springfield—Every one of your local governments is a creature of the state of Illinois, and has only the powers which are given to it by legislation enacted by the general assembly.

Among the powers the general assembly has given to each of your local governments is the power to levy taxes on your property.

To protect property owners against abuse of that taxing power, however, the general assembly has limited that power through the years, in the laws pertaining to each local government, by fixing maximum tax rates that cannot be exceeded without the authorization of the voters in the taxing district at an election.

When the 100 per cent assessment program was enacted in 1946, the members of the general assembly without question thought that they were protecting the taxpayers by enacting a law at the same time and as a part of that program, intended to set a maximum limit on tax rates to produce for 1946 no more than 105 per cent of the maximum that a local government could have received from property taxes in 1942 (for example, where a local government could have received $10,000 in 1942, the members of the General Assembly thought the limit would be $10,500 in 1946).

The supreme court of Illinois, however, in deciding a test case in 1947, gave an entirely different interpretation to this law, and the net effect of this interpretation was to increase tremendously the taxing power of local governments for 1946 over 1945.

Consequently at the 1947 session, the members of the general assembly gave more attention probably to this problem of protecting the taxpayers against excessive taxes than to any other issue in the session. H. B. 513, which was signed by the governor July 22 and is now law, was supported by a united front of citizen organizations to restore as much of the protection as possible that the taxpayers lost through the supreme court decision, without crippling essential services of local governments.

The law rate limitation provisions of H. B. 513 will continue in operation until December 31, 1952, under the present law, by not later than the 1951 session of the general assembly, either some new protections for the property taxpayers will have to be enacted by the general assembly or the provisions of H. B. 513 will have to be extended in time, or else the lid will be off on taxing power after that date.

H. B. 513 provides a maximum tax rate limitation on various funds of more than 10,000 governmental units in the state of Illinois. This includes the various types of local governments, such as counties, schools, municipalities, and special districts. In order to provide effective protection for the taxpayers throughout the state, and in order at the same time to insure that these thousands of local governments of different types could continue to operate, and to provide flexibility that would not necessitate amendment at every session of the general assembly, obviously H. B. 513 had to be somewhat technical and complicated and long.

In the next article, the meaning of H. B. 513 will be explained as simply as possible.

The editor of the Centralia Evening Sentinel has asked whether, after the completion of this series of articles on the story behind your tax bill, the whole story can be issued in pamphlet form. This will depend upon the number who would like to have such a pamphlet. If you would like to receive the complete story behind your tax bill in one pamphlet without charge, write to the Taxpayers' Federation of Illinois, 602 East Capitol Avenue, Springfield, Illinois. Be sure to state in your letter the name of your newspaper.

What's Happening To Your Billions

Government figure jugglers who keep their fingers on the nation's money pulse reported this week:

The high cost of living is forcing out of hiding nest eggs of cash buried in socks and mattresses.

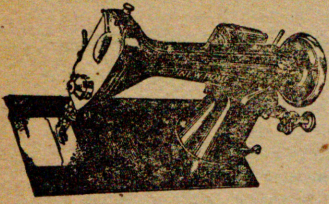

Despite lingering costs, Americans added $3,000,000,000 to saving last year, pushing the total to $155,700,000,000.

The amount of money "in circulation"—that is not accounted for in banks—fell more than $1,000,000,000 during the month after Christmas, a record drop in so short a time. The total was still more than $28,000,000,000.—Pathfinder.

Dolshek-Drake

A few friends and relatives of Chicago, and New Lenox were present Saturday afternoon at the very pretty wedding of the former Helen Frances Dolshek, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Dolshek, New Lenox, and Dale Drake, son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Drake, also of New Lenox.

Before an improvised altar in the rectory of St. Jude's Catholic church, the couple spoke their marriage vows at 3 o'clock, with the Rev. Reynold Klaes officiating at the double-ring ceremony.

Mr. Dolshek gave his daughter in marriage. She was gowned in a white satin dress fashioned with a low square neckline and long tapering sleeves. Her tight-fitting bodice buttoned down the back to the waist with several tiny buttons and her full skirt fell in a train. The new Mrs. Drake's illusion net finger-tip veil was held in place with a crown of seed pearls. She carried a cluster of three orchids surrounded by spirea thunbergii.

Miss Patricia Dolshek, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. She was attired in a gown of duonnet velveteen, trimmed with pink netting, styled with a dropped shoulder neckline, long fitted bodice; the gown also had a full skirt. Her headpiece was of silver with matching silver slippers. Miss Dolshek carried a bouquet of dubonnet carnations intermingled on pink netting. Her dubonnet gloves were elbow length.

Wendell Drake was best man for his brother.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was held in the Rose room of the Louis Joliet hotel, with 30 guests attending.

The bride's mother was attired in navy blue crepe with navy accessories;

The ILLINOIS & MICHIGAN CANAL 1848-1948

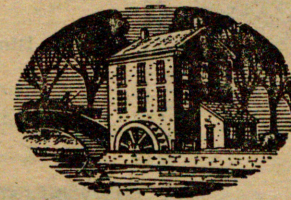

Read the tale of the old Illinois and Michigan Canal, now celebrating its hundredth birthday, in your Service Bulletin.

It's a story of the Canal's beginnings: about the 4th of July in 1836 when the first spadeful of dirt was turned at Canalport (Bridgeport) in Chicago; it tells of important events which preceded that eventful 4th and of some of the happenings in the twelve years that followed before the great waterway was finished. The regular meeting of the Woman's League of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church was held February 24 in the church to celebrate the seventh anniversary. Mrs. Cecelia Ruder, chairman, conducted the business meeting. Reports were received from various committees. A bakery sale was planned for Saturday, March 13 at O'Daniel's drug store beginning at 2 o'clock. It was announced that the next regular meeting of the league will be an all day meeting for sewing beginning at 9:30 a. m. March 30th. Following the business meeting Mrs. Aurelia Bruns program chairman, introduced Mrs. Arne Elkedahl, guest speaker of the day from Chicago, who spoke on her recent trip to Norway. Dressed in a beautiful Norwegian national costume of Harager Province, she spoke of Norway's unusual beauty as well as its curious combination of old and new architecture. Mrs. Elkedahl told of her many interesting experiences which climaxed in a successful attempt to stowaway back to America. She brought with her an interesting display of her Norwegian souvenirs and a fine selection of pictures of Norway.

As a fitting conclusion Mrs. Elkedahl's four year old daughter Kristina sang the Norway national anthem "Ja Vi Elsker" in Norwegian. After the program, the hostesses, Lena Reinholdt, Ramona Stelwagon, and Elsie Padzulkas served dessert-coffee from an attractively decorated table featuring a large birthday cake. Appropriate Norwegian treats were made by Mrs. Josephine Evenson. Guests for the afternoon were mesdames Dickson, Anderson, Taylor, Elkedahl, Tuftedal, and Kristina Elkedahl.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Gougar and son Joseph were Sunday guests of their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Raye Hogue in Joliet.

Twenty three members and three guests attended the February meeting held February 27 in the home of Mrs. Davis Gougar. The morning session was devoted to textile painting with Mrs. Robert Zier as teacher. A delicious potluck luncheon was enjoyed at noon. The afternoon session was presided over by Mrs. Will Drake, vice chairman in the absence of Mrs. J. E. Stevens. The major lesson Pastry and its Uses was ably demonstrated by Mrs. J. E. Robinson and Mrs. Hubert Ewing. The International flower show to be held this month beginning the 14th in the Coliseum, Chicago, was discussed. The minor lesson was a very interesting book review of "Pleasant Valley" by Louis Bromfield was given by Mrs. Davis Gougar. The health report was given by Mrs. Edward Berens. An interesting game was presented by Mrs. Ewing, recreational chairman.

Mrs. E. J. Stevens, who has been quite ill in her home, is recovering.

What Others Say of Noah Mason

Hon. Martin Dies, former Chairman of the well-known Dies Committee:

"Congressman Mason has been a real help to me on the committee. Mason is dependable, and has done more than his share of the committee work. He has substituted for me as speaker on many occasions."

Hon. Joseph Martin, Speaker of the House of Representatives:

"You have faithfully served your own constituents and have been a stalwart champion of Constitutional Government. Because of your constant effort against waste and extravagance, the tax burden of the American people is lighter than it would otherwise have been. Your vigilance has aided in checking the growth of bureaucracy and unnecessary regimentation."

Hon. Harold Knutson, Chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee:

"Let me take this means to sincerely thank you for the loyal and effective help you gave me in twice putting H. R. 1. (Tax Reduction Bill) through the House. You have kept the faith and I am most grateful to you, as I know your constituents are."

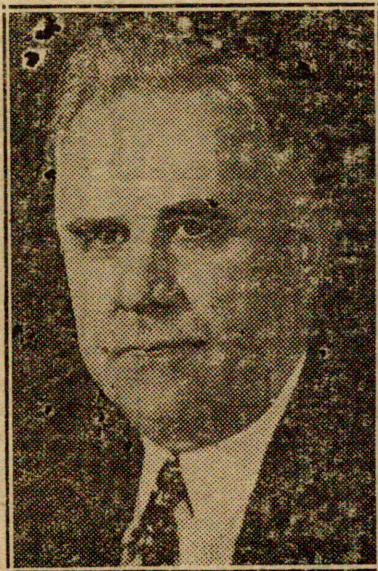

John J. Barrett, President, Union National Association of Post Office Clerks:

"On behalf of 40,000 members of the United National Association of Post Office Clerks I extend to you their heartfelt appreciation for the wonderful service rendered them by you in enacting into law H. R. 3035, the Postal Salary Reclassification Bill. We feel that we are deeply indebted and want you to know that we are grateful to you."

Leo E. George, President, National Federation of Post Office Clerks:

"Your sympathetic consideration of legislation vital to the welfare of the employees in the field service of the Post Office Department has won for you a place in their hearts that may hardly be equaled. Your consistent championship of Longevity Pay Legislation, and your record on this subject, goes back farther than that of any present member of the House of Representatives. Your support of postal salary legislation in the 79th Congress in particular has well demonstrated your fair and judicious attitude with respect to the welfare of our members."

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Ben's Bride Gets Chickenhearted

Ben Ryder was mighty proud of his young bride when she offered to care for his new flock of baby chicks. "Just like a mother with her brood," he boasts.

Then came market time for fryers—and the crisis! Sue simply wouldn't let Ben near her chickens with an axe. She'd raised them as babes... she'd named them... they were her very own!

Ben poured himself a glass of beer, to think things over sensibly. He hated to lose the price on fryers... but he figured Sue had put up with his peculiarities, he guessed he could put up with her fondness for the chickens.

So now Ben has the nicest brood of laying hens in town, and from where I sit, one of the most successful marriages, too. All because he "lived-and-let-live"—literally. And whenever he wants fried chicken, he takes his bride over to Andy's Garden Tavern for a crisp wing and a glass of beer.

"Good" Grass Isn't Good Enough!

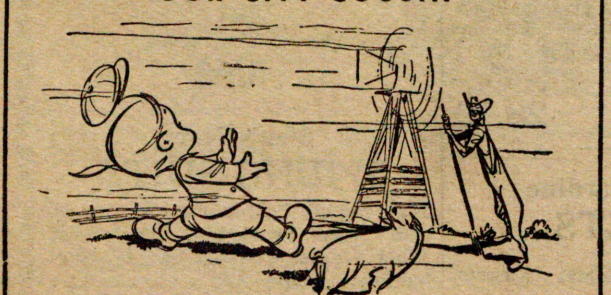

The output of our grasslands can be doubled!" Top experts of the U. S. Department of Agriculture will tell you that. So will many a far-sighted rancher and farmer out of his actual experience. So will students and teachers of land management everywhere . . . In that bright possibility of range and pasture improvement lies one principal hope for more food for a hungry world. Not only more food, but better food. For proper grassland management will improve the fertility of the land, and the nutritive value of the foods coming off it. It will save the land, too, protecting the precious layer of topsoil from blowing away or washing off to sea. And it will increase the amount and value of hay for cash-crop or winter feeding.

The way is wide open for you to improve your grass. Strong and willing allies stand ready to help you. For advice and active help in planning your own grass-management program, there's your County Agent . . . For technical, practical help in putting your program into operation, call on the Soil Conservation Service technician who lives in your district . . . And for information on newest experimental developments, call on your State Agricultural College or experiment station.

The program of good management for your grassland which you work out together will probably consist of some—or perhaps all—of the following practices. If you're in the range country: (1) Livestock numbers balanced to the amount of grass you can produce. (2) A rotation schedule of seasonal grazing. (3) Water located conveniently. (4) Elimination of excessive brush. (5) Wider distribution of salt to prevent overgrazing near salt source. (6) Re-seeding of over-used or abandoned range. (7) Introduction of improved native grasses and adapted new grasses. (8) Irrigation. (9) Protection against wind and water erosion. If yours is farm pasture land: (1) Liming. (2) Fertilization. (3) Seeding with pasture mixtures which stretch the grazing season at both ends. (4) Weed control by mowing or chemicals. (5) Rotation grazing. (6) Avoidance of over-grazing. (7) Irrigation.

We of Swift & Company have the same deep, basic interest that you have in range and pasture improvement. More and better grass is to our interest as it is to yours—and to the nation's. That's why we urge you to act, if you have not already done so, to increase the productiveness of your grasslands.

Martha Logan's Recipe for SPRINGTIME PORK AND VEAL

½ pound pork shoulder 2 tablespoons flour
½ pound veal shoulder 1 tablespoon sugar
½ cup diced rhubarb ¼ cup water
1 ½ teaspoons salt

Cut pork and veal into 1-inch cubes. Brown in heavy skillet. Add rhubarb. Cover and simmer 1 hour. Remove cover. Combine salt, flour, sugar, and water. Stir lightly into meat. Simmer 5 minutes to blend. Serve hot with or without toast.

Profit Comes from SAVING!

The story at the head of this page is about farmers and ranchers making the most of their grasslands. By good planning, managing well, and operating efficiently, they can grow more grass, produce more food for the world, and make more money. While writing that story, I was struck by a similarity in the Swift business. For it is careful planning and efficient operation that keep us in business, too. Like you with your grassland, we've got to make the most of what we have. We've got to practice efficiency. We, also, must cut costs, operate with economy. Not only the important economy of finding uses and markets for every possible by-product, but economy and efficiency all along the line.

Maybe you saw Swift's recent financial report for 1947. It showed that we earned $22,334,977 after provision of $12,000,000 for high cost additions to fixed assets. This earning represented one cent out of our average dollar of sales. That one cent was earned in large part by the savings we made. The operating figures of our business prove that statement. They show where the savings came from. New methods of doing things which save time and cost. Modern equipment replacing old, worn equipment. Better ways discovered by Swift research to produce, use and handle Swift products. A small saving here . . . another there . . . little economies pyramiding into big economies. Until, added together, the savings which we made last year in the actual day-by-day operation of the Swift business amounted to a considerable part of our earnings.

Careful planning, good management and efficient operation are "musts" in our business as in yours. "Little things" can often add up to the difference between a profit and a loss.

Save More Spring Pigs

by C. M. Vestal, Purdue University

Surveys indicate that one out of every three pigs farrowed dies before weaning age. These death losses are one of the biggest leaks in the hog business. They can be reduced during the cold spring months by the use of electric brooders in individual farrowing houses or pens of a central house.

A three-year study and observation of 105 litters showed that an average of one and one-half more pigs was saved per litter when electric brooders were used in individual farrowing houses. The death loss from chilling was 10 per cent in the unheated houses against 2.2 per cent in those equipped with heated brooders. These losses in the houses without heat increased when the weather became colder. Outdoor temperature, however, had little if any effect on death losses when the electric brooders were used.

The electrically heated pig brooder, either home-made or a factory-made type, proved to be the most practical method of supplying heat. The brooder provides a small area in the pen or house which can be heated economically. The simplest type of brooder is a 150-watt reflector flood lamp suspended over a protected area for the pigs in the corner of the pen or house. Installation and use of electric pig brooders require the necessary careful handling of electricity.

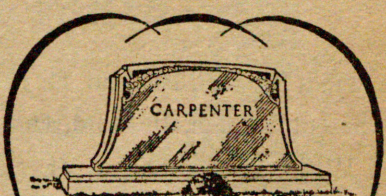

Details for the construction of a pig brooder usually may be obtained from county agents or Agricultural Experiment Stations.

"Weigh 'em to Swift!"

The pen gate opens and cattle crowd into the alley, headed for the scales. A cry rings out, "Weigh 'em to Swift!" Another lot of livestock has been sold to Swift & Company. That deal is a miniature of the business relationship between livestock producers and meat packers.

When this lot of steers was "finished," the producer sent them to the stockyards, consigned to a commission firm. In the "yards" livestock buyers came to look and make their competitive bids. Competition is always keen because 26,000 meat packers and other commercial slaughterers in the United States are active in livestock buying. Each buyer knows that unless he bids "the going price" for the animals he wants, some competitor will get them. Also, he knows that if he bids too high his company will take a loss.

Thus competition and the law of supply and demand set the prices all along the line. This load of steers went to Swift & Company because the Swift buyer offered more than other buyers. And the price he paid was based on his estimate of what the meat, hides, glands and other by-products would be worth to Swift & Company.

IN MEMORIAM

GLADYS WARNING—In loving memory of our daughter, sister, and aunt, who passed away 2 years ago, March 14. The road into the sunset

Is one we each must tread,
And though it brings a sorrow
When a loved one goes ahead,
Still there is comfort knowing
We will meet again some day.
When grief and pain are over
And the clouds have rolled away.

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery.

Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination.

There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

DOAN'S PILLS

DESOLATE BUT IN BIG DEMAND . . . The frenzy with which men used to scour the Arctic wastes for gold has been transferred to the Antarctic where the search is for uranium ore. This photo shows a British surveying party on Wiencke island, Falkland islands, an outpost of British possessions in the Antarctic now being threatened by claims from Chile. President Gabriel Videla of Chile made a personal tour of strategic Antarctic points and brought back some ore samples which were believed to be uranium. Despite British protests he made plans to inaugurate a Chilean army outpost on Greenwich island.

PICKETING IN THE MODERN MANNER . . . Regular airline pilots of National airlines gleefully have inaugurated what they say is a new, "first time" air-age picketing technique. Small planes towing the strike notice shuffled back and forth in the air over Miami, Fla., "to tell the public that the regular veteran and skilled National airlines pilots are not at the controls of any of National's airplanes that might be operated."

KNEE-DEEP IN HERRING . . . When more than 100 tons of herring landed in boats at Fisherman's Wharf, San Francisco, the bottom almost fell out of the herring market—to say nothing of the boats. It was the largest haul in 30 years, according to records of the California fish and game commission. Here, Florence Zacher, in whom the sight of 100 tons of herring raises no gastronomical qualms, helps unload the record catch.

DOUBLE, DOUBLE, TOIL AND TROUBLE . . . Mr. and Mrs. John Walsh of Quincy, Mass., are shown surrounded by their three famous sets of twins which will go down in the books as a medical rarity. Youngest pair are Kevin and Kathleen, four months; oldest are William and John, 28 months. In the middle came Michael and Maureen, 16 months. This is one of the quickest ways to get a big family.

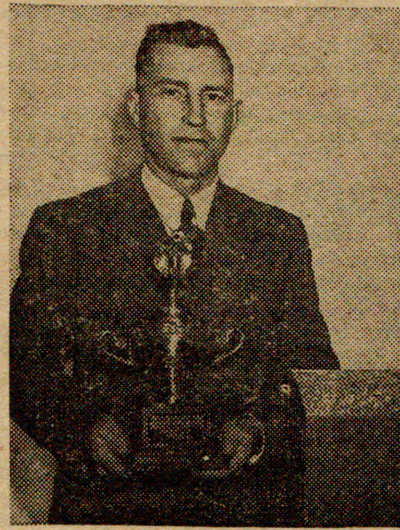

INFLATION . . . Wistful Linda Neiman of Totowa, N. J., tenderly holds the white leghorn hen of her father's that laid the giant egg shown here reposing by a normal-sized one and wonders if inflation affected the chicken, too.

HARVARD MAN . . . Henry M. Noel Jr., Harvard university student, renounced his U. S. citizenship to become a "citizen of the world." Now he is in Kassel, Germany, working as a bricklayer's helper for 25 marks a week.

GOODBY OLD PAINT . . . With faithful Chicago police horses ordered to be sold at auction, Officer Richard L. Eldridge bids farewell to Tom, his sturdy mount in the screaming traffic of Chicago's loop for three years.

WHEAT KING . . . To J. F. Brensing of Hudson, Kan., went the honor of being named wheat king of his state after his wheat was selected as best by Kansas wheat improvement association. He also received Pillsbury wheat award for his achievement.

PARDNERS . . . Happiest couple of the week were Sen. Glen H. Taylor (Dem., Ida.) (left) and Henry Wallace after Taylor announced that he was leaving the Democrats and would accept nomination as vice president on Wallace's third party ticket.

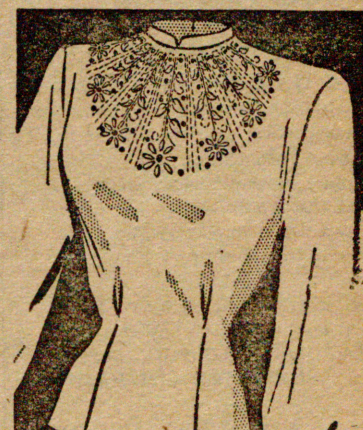

OFF THE COB . . . This photograph of a sublimely hungry and happy G.I., snapped by M/Sgt. Leo H. Gillie of Wetumka, Okla., took second prize in a recent photo contest conducted by the army.

MAN OF PRINCIPLE . . . Stephen Kertesz, former Hungarian minister to Italy, turned down offer to become Hungary's minister of foreign affairs because he disagreed with Communist doctrines. Now he is in U. S. to study international law.

RAS'BRIES

By SETH BABITS

AMONG the million-odd things
Spence wanted to do was visit Topley's. He'd had a yen for Top-ley's back there on the desert wastes. He craved it as a cat would catnip or a homesick Eskimo, an iceberg.

And now, as he hurried his chunky form up the narrow street, the blue neon above Topley's window blazed welcome in letters two feet high.

Spence slid into a seat. He breathed, "Razzberry soda, please.
Topley special."

He closed his eyes and envisioned a monument of pink and white.

A girl's voice, clear and soft, reached him.

"Ras-bry soda," she informed.
"Without ras-bries."

He raised his head. Her eyes were warm and gray. An amused smile bowed her lips.

"Without—" he faltered.

Her manner humored his confusion. But Spence didn't see that. It struck him she was part of the soda.
That the dream also took her in.

He watched her scoop out a gob of ice-cream, drop it into a tall glass, squirt in a crimson syrup and heard the harsh gurgle of carbonated water. The glass was placed before him.

He placed his lips to the straw and pulled. Coldness luxuriously flowed over his tongue, daubed his palate, trickled down his throat and touched off revelations of delicious-ness he'd almost forgotten. It evoked imagery. Lying face upward in a shallow mountain lake... elastic stars shimmering on waters above ... night winds whispering of giant pines... drifting... drifting in a rowboat... and a girl beside him
... gray-eyed and pretty... a girl like... and he looked up. He felt the impact of her presence.

She said, "You enjoyed that?"

Enjoyed! He'd known the pricelessness of a cold glass of water. He grinned.

"Hit the spot like a letter from home."

Spence expected a smile, but she merely picked up his empty glass and erased the moist ring beneath with an efficient stroke of a damp cloth. He felt he'd missed the target, but wide. He rose awkwardly and plunged a hand into his pocket.
His coin vibrated on the counter. A frustrated ring.

The cash register crr-unged dismissal. Spence half-wheeled to go.
In turning, his eye caught the tab, NO SALE! The girl's hand swept to her blouse pocket. The clink of metal told him his coin had joined others.

It was none of his concern, yet the act had been so brazen. He heard himself saying, "Don't they treat you right, here?"

Spence couldn't make out her expression. "They do," she answered succinctly.

"I saw you pocket that money."

"So what?" her coolness irritated him.

"If the owner caught you—"

"There's nothing he could do about it," she began to straighten a row of glasses before her. The gesture tokened disinterest in his opinions. More, it infuriated him.

"I wouldn't have believed it," he managed.

Instantly he was sorry for her. He noticed that dark lashes rested on her cheeks. He realized also his heart was thumping and there was a quaver in his voice that he couldn't control.

"Why don't you ask for a raise?"

"I can't—"

"Then quit. Get another job."

A tall man loomed in the doorway. He was thick shouldered, and muscles like Idaho potatoes bulged his arms, laden at the moment with two big paper bags.

Spence glanced at the girl. Beneath her coolness, he thought he detected an undercurrent of excitement.

She said courteously, "Did you get everything?"

The man shrugged his shoulders and laid the bags on the counter.

"Yeah," he grunted. "Exceptin' powdered sugar." His tone was gruff. He tore the bag down the center.

Spence stared. There, tucked in between two packages lay a jar of raspberries. Atop the pile glistened another of cherries, bright, red, full, exciting and prophetic of delight.

Vaguely, he could hear the man counting. Meaningless numbers.
He'd have to have a Topley special first, then take care of the girl.

Spence regarded her expression. Injury dominated her fair face and a pensive smile hovered about her lips. It rebuked him.

With sinking heart and forward thrust of lean jaw, Spence gulped and announced:

"Sir, I want to talk to you."

"What's botherin' you, son?"

Spence cleared his throat. "You look like a regular guy," he began.

"Now, supposin' you had a conscientious employee. You'd want to keep her, huh?"

"You said it," the man nodded vigorously.

"Now if you had a person like that and you felt she was competent to take care of the store,"

Spence took a deep breath and plunged, "would you give her a raise if she was to ask you. Would you?"

"Guess so," the man acknowledged.

"How much?"

"Well," the man's thick shoulders heaved. "Maybe ten," he said at last.

"You heard him," Spence turned triumphantly toward the girl, "I'm a witness."

She nodded. Her eyes were glowing.

"If you'll excuse me, son," the man was saying, "I'm kind of busy.
I got a lot of deliveries to make."

He handed a paper to the girl.
"Here's the bill," he remarked.

"Thanks. I'll file it. Oh, yes," Spence saw her reach into her blouse pocket. "I've got two new quarters," she offered.

"Swell," he glowed with delight.
He placed a fifty cent piece on the counter. "I just need about six more," he said as she rang up the money, "and I'll have enough for the kid's birthday. Thanks a lot, Miss Topley."

Spence was up. He was past the threshold and into the street. A detaining hand touched his shoulder.
He brushed it off.

"Pu-leez," and a slim figure twisted around and blocked his passage.
"What's the big idea," he demanded.

"I couldn't help it. Once you got started—I couldn't stop you. How about having a super special—with me?"

Spence visioned maraschino cherries floating on a rose pond above submerged raspberries. He also discovered lights in her eyes, flashes of radiant promise. He placed her arm in his. The action seemed most natural. "I'm glad you've reformed," he grinned. They went back into the store.

LET'S TALK ABOUT YOU

Charles B. Babits

So You Think You Have Moods

A young navy lieutenant, not too long out of the service, told me over the luncheon table the other day that he became very much discouraged over himself. I pointed out he hadn't any reason to be. He has a good job. He's doing it well.

"That's just the trouble," he said.
"I'm not doing it well. I know I'm not. One day I feel sure that I have everything a man needs to be successful and happy. Then the next day I'm clear down in the dumps.
It's my moods. Isn't there anything a person can do about moods?"

I told him, as I am presently going to tell you, that of course there is something anyone can do about his moods. I told him furthermore something he never heard of before, that having moods is perfectly normal, perfectly natural, and a good rather than a bad thing.

We know a good deal more about moods now than we did a few years ago, for now we know that at certain times we are going to be happy, regardless of how things break for us, while at others we are going to feel depressed, also regardless of how things break.

Largely responsible for this information is Dr. Rexford Hershey of the University of Pennsylvania, one of the first scientists to study
our emotional curves.

By his researches Dr. Hershey proved that we all have our ups and downs and these occur with regularity. We are elated, cheerful, pleasant, unpleasant, peevish, grouchy. That is one cycle. Then we become elated, cheerful, pleasant, and so forth, again. Our lives are a series of cycles—emotional cycles.

These cycles, moreover, appear with almost exact regularity. With some persons they appear every month; with others every two or three months. Highly emotional people go through their emotional cycles often in less than two-weeks' time, then start all over again; they are always in a dither. But long or short, each of us has his emotional curve.

Maybe you are wondering what you can do to control this curve.
You can't control it, but you can disguise it, so that regardless of how you really feel, you put your best foot forward where the rest of the world is concerned.

And how do you do that? It's simple. Just remember that we take our emotions from our actions, not our actions from our emotions. In other words, to feel cheerful, just act cheerful. The next time you reach the low point of your emotional curve, try that. Act cheerful, talk cheerful, and you will be cheerful.

A Church Spire at Sunset

Grace Noll Crowell

ABOVE the city street a church's spire

Is climbing its bright ladder to the sky.

The steeple's slates glow red, its tip is fire,

A single burning finger there, and high

Above that peak a flying white dove swings,

A scarlet light upon its lifted wings.

These are God's emblems, and they call to men

Above the darkening shadows of the street,

Beckoning to them, bidding them hope again,

Bidding them stay a moment their swift feet,

Calling to them to lift their eyes, and there,

Seeing that pointing finger, breathe a prayer.

And the white bird flying heavenward bids

them cease

The clamor of their hearts and find His peace.

Barley Yields Uppeped, Quality Is Improved With Plant Food Use

CHICAGO—Fertilizing barley with the plant food it needs is a profitable investment, yield records from several midwestern agricultural colleges reveal. As many as 20 more bushels of barley on some soils in favorable years have come from the use of fertilizer, according to a statement issued here by the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee. How big the increases are depends on how fertile the soil is at the start and how favorable conditions are during the growing season.

Adding needed plant food boosted barley yields in Iowa by 15 bushels per acre. Experiments in Michigan showed 16 bushels increase. In Wisconsin fertilizer boosted yields an average of 14 bushels per acre. In South Dakota nitrogen and phosphate boosted barley yields by 15 bushels.

Top yields most generally give top quality, too, says the statement. And when this extra quality is combined with proper seed and careful threshing, farmers can get a premium price for the barley as malting barley.

The right kind and amount of fertilizer to use depends on the kind of soil you have and the way you have handled it in the past. You can find the kind of fertilizer needed for your crops by consulting your county agricultural agent, state agronomist, and by checking with your neighbors who have used fertilizer on barley.

Drilled-in Fertilizer Helps Barley Crop Get Quick Start in Spring

CHICAGO—The fertilizers farmers use on barley and other small grains will give larger increases in yield per pound of fertilizer if the plant food is put on with a fertilizer attachment on the grain drill, declared the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee in a statement issued here.

With the drill the fertilizer is applied more or less in bands, close to the seed. The plants get a quick start in the spring and are better able to compete with the soil for the plant food.

Another way to get bigger increases from the same amount of fertilizer is to use it on soil with good structure—where legumes and grasses have been used regularly in the rotation. Plant food in the soil will be used only as the roots reach out to it. And good tilth is needed for strong roots.

Large amounts of fertilizer high in nitrogen drilled with the barley and small grains may injure the seed. The amounts that can be drilled with the seeds without injury vary from soil to soil, says the statement. The committee advises that farmers check with their state agronomists and county agents for recommendations on the kind, amount and method of application of fertilizer.

Spring Pasture Fertilization Will Help Solve Feed Shortage, Save Needed Grain

Big Grain Crops and Conservation of Farm Grain Are Still a 1948 'Must.'

CHICAGO—With a continuance of the critical "pinch" in feed supplies during the spring and summer months, pasture fertilization will be number one item in farm planning this spring, according to the Middle West Soil Improvement Committee, in a statement made public here.

"The stringency of the feed situation is indicated by Secretary of Agriculture Anderson's recent request that farmers 'stretch their grain supplies as never before in the months ahead,'" says the statement. "He warned that there can be no letup in farm grain conservation between now and next harvest.

"Millions of bushels of sorely needed wheat can be saved if farmers get their pastures into higher yielding condition. These pastures will 'pinch hit' for scarce, high priced grains.

"Heading the list of steps to boost pasture output should be measures that will get you sturdy catches of alfalfa and sweet clover. Such measures should include liming, based on soil tests, the use of fertilizers carrying phosphorus and potash and the return of manure and crop residues to the soil.

"Good pasture is your cheapest source of feed high in proteins and minerals."
